ADVENTURE GEAR

Because Life is an Adventure

SPRING/SUMMER 2008

sherpa..

TO STAND ON THE SUMMIT—OR EVEN IN THE SHADOW—OF ANY HIGH PEAK IS AWE INSPIRING. THE IMMENSE QUIET. THE EXPANSIVE VIEWS. The smell of a clean, fresh breeze blowing. Something about the experience reaches in and soothes your soul.

Of course, any adventure includes an element of risk. That's part of what makes it so fulfilling. The key to surviving—and thriving—lies in minimizing the risk.

When the first explorers encountered the jagged Himalayan Mountains, they recognized the dangers of exploring this vast and inhospitable land alone. And they quickly realized the risk-reducing value of hiring local Sherpa people to serve as porters and guides. Today, it is extraordinarily rare for any climber to attempt a treacherous summit like Everest without the support of skilled Sherpas.

Renowned for their hardiness and experience at high altitudes, it is the Sherpa who sets the route, carries the load, and lays the rope all the way to the top and back. And often it is the Sherpa who rescues sick and injured climbers while others continue on to the summit, or return to camp. These humble people make mountaineer's amazing exploits possible.

At Sherpa Adventure Gear, we believe that every outdoor adventurer needs a Sherpa. Of course, we also know not everyone is in a position to hire one. So we've created a line of outdoorwear and sleeping bags that is the next best thing—dependable, hardy clothing that's designed to help you reach your own, personal summits.

Every piece has been tested by our team of experienced Sherpa athletes in the harrowing conditions found on "the roof of the world". So you can depend on it to be there for you, wherever your adventures take you.

SPRING/SUMMER 2008

TASHI DELEK— CONGRATULATIONS NURI AND LHAKPA RITA!

SHERPA ADVENTURE GEAR ATHLETES REACH THE SUMMIT OF EVEREST AGAIN IN 2007!

This May, Lhakpa Rita Sherpa summited Everest for the tenth time, and Nuri Sherpa summited for the second time, both while guiding clients up the South East side. All of their clients also successfully made the summit.

In addition to being sponsored Sherpa Adventure Gear Athletes, and regularly testing and developing new gear for us, Lhakpa guides around the world for Alpine Ascents out of Seattle, Washington, while Nuri guides in the Himalaya for Climb High—the company started by the Late Pemba Doma Sherpa (read a tribute to Pemba on p. 22).

A SEASON OF JOY AND SORROW

KNOWN AS “THE BEST SARDAR (SHERPA CAPTAIN) IN THE KHUMBU”, Lhakpa Rita Sherpa has stood atop many of the highest peaks in the world, and a record 136 climbers have made the summit of Everest under his leadership. This year, he summited Everest for an amazing 10th time. Yet the joy and exhilaration of this tremendous success was quickly dampened when, on his way down, he found Nepali female climber Usha Bista abandoned by her team and dying at approximately 27,000 ft. (above Camp 4).

At that elevation it is not uncommon for even the fittest of climbers to experience climb-ending—and often life-threatening—ailments. Sadly, it is also not uncommon for those unable to continue up, or make their way down, to be left to die where they lay. Because on a dangerous mountain like Everest, climbers put their lives at even greater risk by attempting a rescue.

Yet when Lhakpa encountered Usha on his way down he did not even consider his own wellbeing. Instead, he organized her rescue. And along with two climber friends made sure she got down safely. When Usha and her family threw a huge family banquet to express their eternal gratitude for saving her life, Lhakpa said only “I don’t need your gratitude. What I want is that you should also be willing to help another climber in the same situation.”

Unfortunately, this happy ending is not the end of the story. After rescuing Usha, Lhakpa was watching helplessly from the flanks of Everest as internationally renowned climber and close friend Pemba Doma Sherpa slid to her death on neighboring Lhotse.

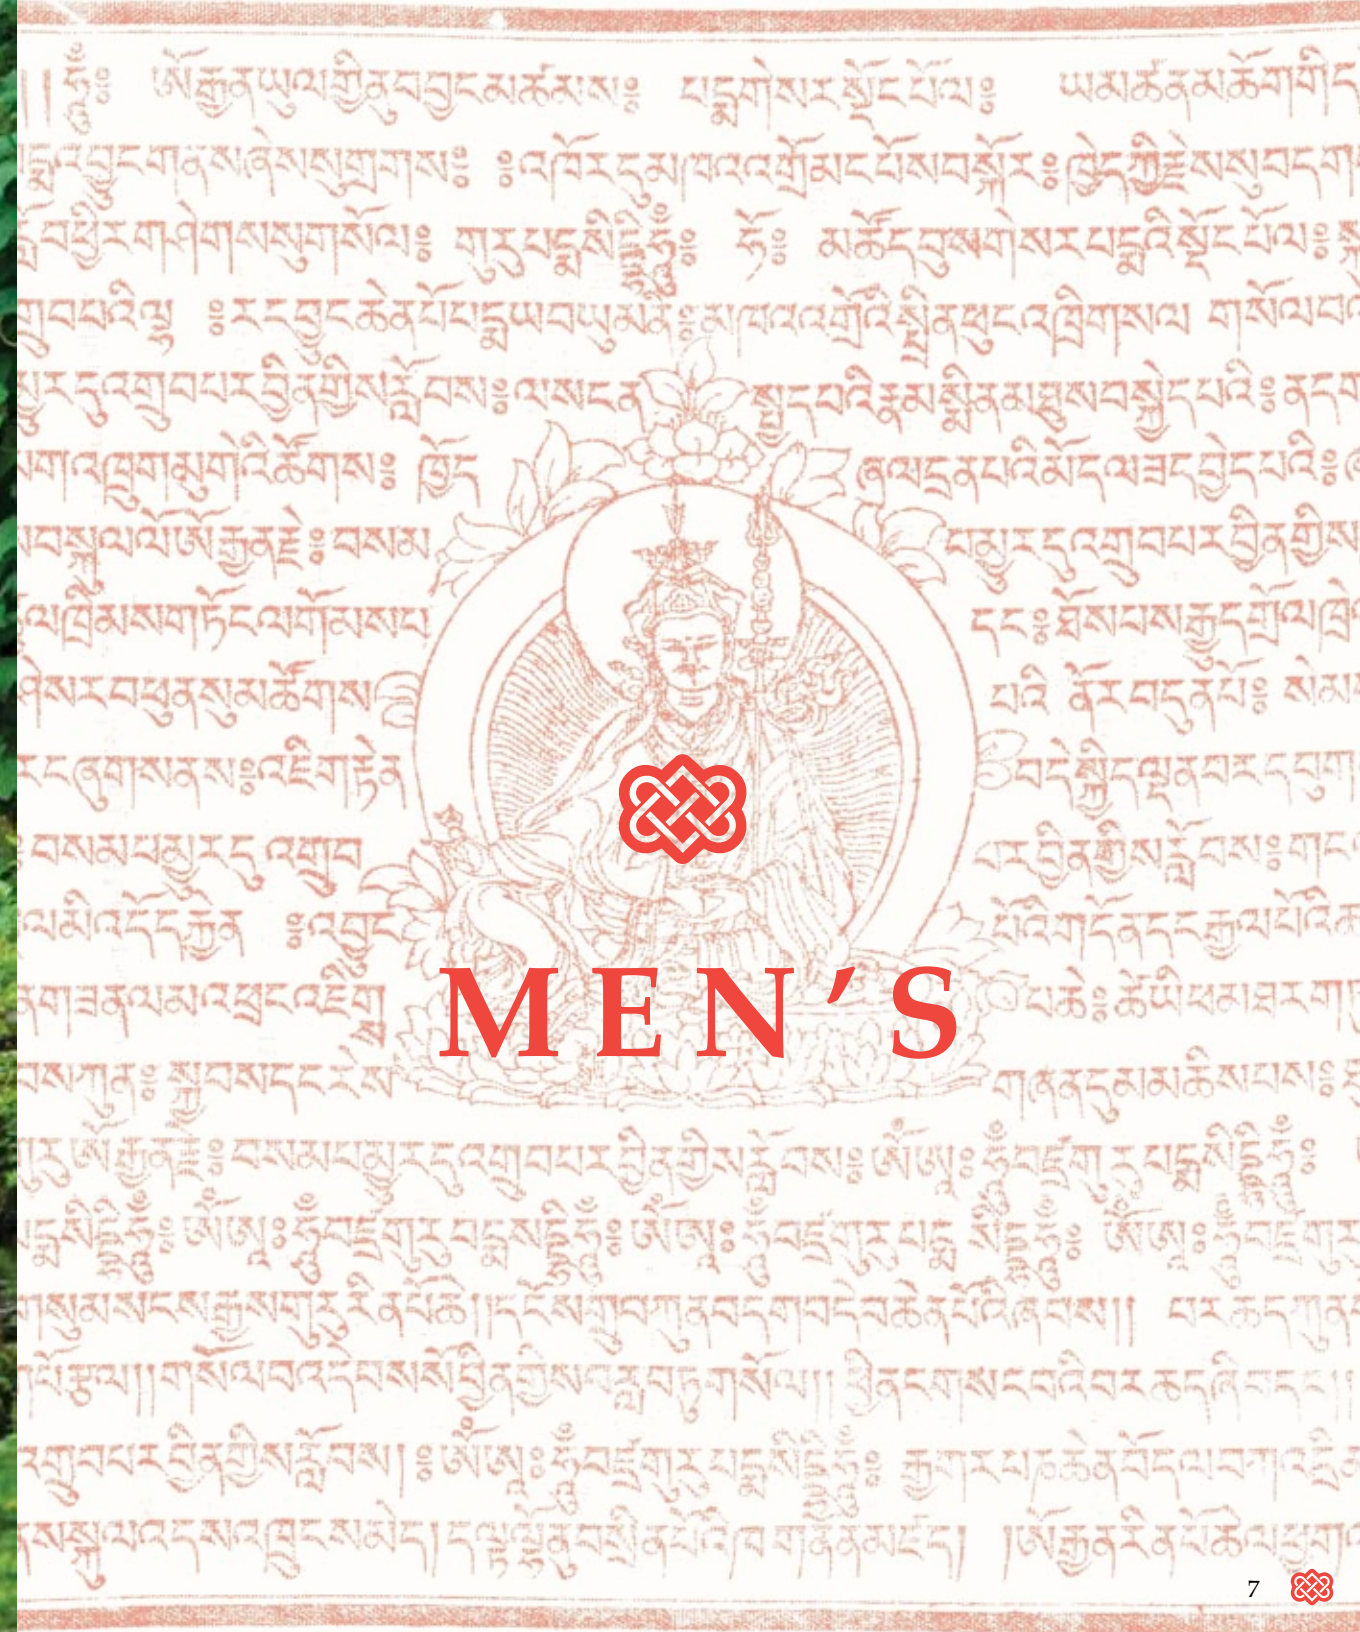

Lhakpa Rita on the summit of Mt. Everest, May, 2007.

As rare as it is for ill and injured climbers to be rescued, it is rarer still for an effort to be made to rescue the body of a dead climber. Yet even though he was exhausted from his own climb, and filled with grief, Lhakpa immediately began the heroic effort to do just that. Thanks to him, Pemba’s family was able to fulfill last ceremonial rites and cremate her body to put her spirit at peace. Through his actions, charm and humility Lhakpa embodies the essence of the unsung Sherpa hero.

BASE LAYER - MEN'S

SUMMER CAN BRING ANYTHING from searing sunshine to snow squalls. In order to survive, and thrive, in any conditions you need the right base layers...Pieces you can wear alone in blistering heat, or layer together in cooler climes. And clothing you can wear for days on end without offending your tent mates. By incorporating the latest fabric technologies like our proprietary, Dry Zone smart fabric, and sustainable, odor-repellant bamboo charcoal we've created shirts and pants you may never want to take it off.

Baans Tee

Baans means bamboo in Nepali—making it an apt name for this shirt. With the most bamboo charcoal of any of our base layers, it's our most de-odorizing, anti-bacterial and anti-fungal option for hot weather activities.

- Serious moisture absorption and ventilation for comfort on hot days
- Made with renewable, eco-friendly bamboo
- Extra bamboo keeps you feeling and smelling fresh longer

Fabric: 44% Polyester / 56% Bamboo Charcoal Polyester

Sonam Top

Made of "intelligent" DRY ZONE® fabric

In Tibetan, Sonam means good fortune or karma. We had the good fortune of having this state-of-the-art, Dry Zone® "smart" fabric designed specifically for Sherpa Adventure Gear. Thanks to its high-tech thermal conductivity control, it keeps you warm in cold weather and cool in the heat. It's also semi-waterproof, fast-wicking and dries in one second flat! Hands-down, this is our most popular long sleeve shirt for any summer activity.

- Blocks 99% of UV rays so you don't get burned at high elevations
- So light it floats!
- Stretch rib fabric is woven with anti-bacterial silver ions to minimize odors
- "Intelligent" fabric keeps you warm in the cold and cool in the heat

Fabric: 82% Nylon / 18% Polyester Dry Zone®

Lobsang Short Sleeve Tee

New Oekotex®-certified fabric

When the weather is warm, this is the shirt you'll reach for first thing, day after day. The anti-static, silk weight fabric sucks away moisture while always feeling cool and comfortable against your skin. And the trim fit makes it ideal for layering on chilly mornings.

- Maximum wicking power keeps you dry and comfortable
- Curved side panels assure a snug fit for easy layering
- Flat seams eliminate chafing

Fabric: 100% Polyester Knit

Lobsang Pant

New Oekotex®-certified fabric

In life, and in the backcountry, versatility is key. These silk weight bottoms are the epitome of the word. Wear them alone as super light weight, moisture-wicking pants. Or layer them underneath other pants or shells when the weather turns cool.

- Designed to be worn alone or layered
- Gusseted crotch allows for full freedom of movement
- Curved side panels assure a snug fit for easy layering
- Flat seams eliminate chafing

Fabric: 100% Polyester Knit

Baans Tech Quarter-Zip

When brisk mountain mornings transform into hot summer days, this is the shirt you want to be wearing. Eco-friendly bamboo charcoal in the fabric absorbs and disperses sweat fast. Plus, its de-odorizing, anti-bacterial and anti-fungal traits mean you can wear this shirt day after day.

- Zip neck helps you cool off as the day gets warm
- Serious moisture absorption and ventilation for comfort on hot days
- Stylish, two-tone accents
- Made with renewable, eco-friendly bamboo that's de-odorizing, anti-bacterial and anti-fungal

THREE DAYS ON THE TRAIL. Two in town. A night on a train, followed by a long climb to a lofty summit with astonishing views. Blissfully achy evenings spent enjoying a pitcher and a slice of pie, or a steaming bowl of daal bhaat in some far-flung mountain village. Thanks to a seamless blend of technical fabrics and street styling, these versatile pants and shirts are made to do all of that and more.

Karnali II Short Sleeve Shirt

We've taken our popular Karnali long sleeve shirt—named after the longest river in Nepal—and updated it with a lighter weight, wicking fabric and short sleeves for summer. This stylish plaid shirt might look too nice to wear on the water or when hitting the trail, but it has all the technical features you need for a long day outdoors.

- Zippered napoleon and chest pockets carry essentials securely
- Mesh back panel provides cooling air flow in warm weather
- Wicking fabric provides UPF 40 sun protection and dries quickly when wet
- Gusseted arms for unrestricted mobility

Ravi Short Sleeve Shirt

Ravi means sun. And for those hot, sunshine-filled days when you plan on spending more time in town or base camp than on the trail, this is the only shirt you need. It's durable, wash and wear fabric is highly packable. Plus, it's got such a soft hand, nice drape and cool feel you may never want to take it off.

- Single chest pocket holds your iPod easily
- Polynosic fabric won't shrink or stretch when wet
- Cut for casual comfort
- Wicking fabric feels cool and dries quickly

SOFT SHELL - MEN'S

PEOPLE OFTEN ASK...“What exactly is a soft shell?” We define soft shells as highly versatile pants and jackets you can wear alone as outerwear, or layer comfortably under your hard shells for the ultimate in foul weather protection. Made of stretchy, flexible fabrics they offer the ideal combination of warmth and breathability for more active pursuits—plus protection from all but the worst conditions. Once you own one, you’ll wonder what you ever did without it (and you’ll likely want another).

HARD SHELL - MEN'S

FEW AREAS OF THE WORLD experience the kind of harsh weather and fast-moving storms that regularly assault climbers in the Himalaya. When nasty conditions set in, dependable outerwear can mean the difference between an exciting adventure and total disaster. So all of our hard shells (and all of our products, in fact) are field tested by experienced Sherpas to make sure you can trust every piece to protect you from the elements.

INSULATION - MEN'S

EVEN THOUGH THE WEATHER warms up in Nepal in the summer, if you're climbing high mountains the mercury can still fall well below freezing. And even when you aren't seeking serious summits it often gets chilly enough for a bit of insulation. These dependable, well-built jackets and pants pack extreme warmth in to small packages. Plus, every piece of our insulated clothing has been tested by Sherpas on the dangerous peaks of the Himalaya. They trust their lives to it...So can you.

Vajra Primaloft® Jacket 60 gsm

When you don't need a full-on parka, or even a down sweater, but you do need a little insulation, this jacket is ideal. A spring/summer version of our heavier Urygen, you'll take this cozy, warm-even-when-wet jacket everywhere.

- 60 gsm Primaloft® — just the right amount for chilly summer nights
- Compresses down to next-to-nothing to fit neatly in your pack
- 2 hand warmer pockets and 1 zip chest pocket hold necessities
- Lycra® binding at collar and cuffs creates a snug seal
- A DWR coating makes the ultra-light, ripstop nylon water resistant

Urygen Primaloft® Pant 100 gsm

Built to the same standards as our Urygen jacket, these insulated, wind resistant pants are the secret to staying toasty warm in wet, blustery weather. The synthetic Primaloft® insulation is super-compressible and surprisingly warm for its light weight and lack of bulk.

- 100 gsm Primaloft® insulation for extra warmth in cold temperatures
- Light weight compressibility for easy packing and carrying
- Full side zips let you take these pants on and off in a flash
- A DWR coating makes the ultra-light, ripstop nylon water resistant
- Articulated knees provide freedom of movement without binding

Remembering Pemba Doma Sherpa

RENOWNED CLIMBER, WIFE, MOTHER, ENTREPRENEUR AND PHILANTHROPIST

1970-2007

PEMBA DOMA SHERPA passed away on May 21st, 2007 in a tragic accident while climbing down from a successful summit of Everest's sister peak, Lhotse. Pemba was the first Nepalese woman to conquer Everest from the north side, and one of only six women who have scaled the mountain twice, most recently as part of the 2002 Nepalese women Expedition (South Face).

After losing her mother at the age of two, Pemba was raised by grandparents who owned a guest house in Namche Bazaar catering to climbers. When she was quite young, her grandfather would regularly carry her on his back into the high mountains. That experience, combined with listening in as visiting climbers planned their expeditions, planted the seed of climbing Everest in her mind. But much would happen in her life before she got her chance.

Pemba was educated at one of 26 schools established in Nepal by Sir Edmund Hillary, and later went on to travel and live extensively in Europe; learning nine languages in the process. She also started her charity, Save the Himalayan Kingdom, giving talks around the world to raise money for her cause. Pemba first summited Everest—solo—in 2000. In 2002, she married Rajen Thapa. Then, in 2003, gave birth to her daughter Sairani Lhemi. Shortly after that she returned to climbing, and she and her husband started their own trekking service.

Pemba was much more than an accomplished climber. She was an inspiration to women everywhere, and a selfless champion of the Sherpa people. Her presence will be greatly missed.

Accomplishments

Summited:

- Mt. Everest (8848m) via North Ridge and South East Routes
- Mt. Cho Oyu (8201m)
- Lobuche East (6119m)
- Island Peak (6189m)
- Mt. Blanc (4808 m)

Founded:

The non-profit group Save the Himalayan Kingdom to support education, and restoration of Buddhist nunneries and monasteries including Deboche, the oldest nunnery in Nepal.

Presented with:

- The National Award of Nepal, SUPRABAL PRASHID-DHA GORKHA DAKSHIN BAHU by His Majesty Late King Birendra Bir Bikram Shah Dev of Nepal for Mountaineering.
- The Gold medal for Mountaineering, Nepal.
- The Sky Walk – The Soles of Records, Italy

Pemba was a woman extraordinaire with a legion of admirers and fans, my family and team included, who saw in her the embodiment of the great Sherpa—fiercely brave and daring in challenging the status quo of a male dominated sport in Nepal, especially amongst Sherpas. I'll always treasure her beatific smile when I used to scold her on being too reckless (in my own ignorant opinion) about doing solo climbs.

Pemba touched everyone who came to know her. She doted on her only child Lhemi and was a true soul mate to her husband Rajen Thapa. They were equal partners in their business, and in their community projects. She was also compassionate to the core—demanding all of us to give back to our community.

A true brand ambassador for Sherpa Adventure Gear, she never hesitated to let us know where we needed to improve. I remember fondly how Pemba took it upon herself to visit our Nepal office regularly during my absence to let the staff know that she was there to keep them on track!

I will always be grateful for the implicit faith she had in our brand and its mission. It was never about money for her. Her deep trust in what we did, her innate pride in being able to wear and show and sell Sherpa Adventure Gear to the world, her belief that this was her company as much as ours... These are values that no royalty payments can buy.

Tara Wool Hoodie

Most people don't think of wearing wool in the summertime, but this lightweight merino offers better breathability, temperature regulation, moisture control, and inherent anti-microbial properties than cotton or polyester. Unlike "traditional" wool, merino is much finer, softer, and best of all, it's itch-free for all but those with severe lanolin allergies.

- Renewable merino wool is better for the environment
- Raglan sleeves improve mobility and reduce chafing
- A tight weave makes this jacket water repellent
- Easy care fabric is machine washable

SOFT SHELL - WOMEN'S

BACK IN THE DAYS when climbers first summited Everest, the clothing of choice was wool, gabardine or waxed cotton. Today you have a lot more options when it comes to surviving—and thriving—in the elements. One of the newest and most versatile is the soft shell. Compared to a traditional hard shell, soft shells are warmer, softer, stretchier and more breathable. Most importantly, they work equally as well as outerwear, or as a layering piece when conditions turn nasty.

Choden Jacket
If you're looking for basic yet versatile soft shell you can pull out in iffy conditions—that's the Choden. Cut to follow a woman's curves, this jacket is especially well-suited for stop-and-go activities thanks to a grid fleece inner facing that traps warm air when you're sitting still, and moves air through when you're working hard.

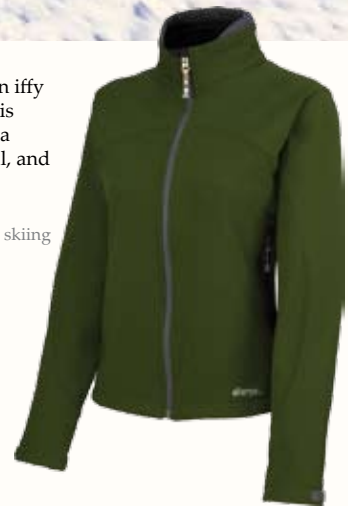

- Breathable, 3-layer bonded fabric shrugs off damp, wind and cold
- Articulated elbows and underarm gussets add comfort while climbing or skiing
- Front pockets store essentials and provide shelter for your hands

HARD SHELL - WOMEN'S

FROM THE BRUTAL COLD OF WINTER to the heavy rains of summer, Sherpa people put up some of the harshest weather in the world. Those who work in the high mountains have learned that for four-season protection from wind, rain or snow nothing beats the dependability of a serious hard shell. And because we understand that more and more women are pushing the limits alongside the guys, we've taken the same, technical line of shells we make for men and recreated them to fit a woman's body.

Lungta Hybrid II Jacket

Lungta is the name given to the prayer flags that flutter in the breeze carrying wishes for good fortune. When the weather turns bad, the Lungta jacket is a little piece of good fortune stashed in your pack. An ideal choice for active sports like hiking, running and climbing, it combines the best qualities of waterproof hard shells and breathable, stretchy soft shells.

- Light weight, waterproof, windproof shell handles storms with ease
- Pit vents and stretch weave fabric provide added ventilation
- Seam sealed, 3-layer fabric and waterproof zippers keep you dry
- Adjustable hood fits over helmets

Fabric: 93% Nylon / 7% Spandex WR3 Layer Breathable

Lungta Hybrid Pant

Made from the same incredible hybrid fabric as our Lungta Jacket, these waterproof/breathable pants are equally well-suited to skiing, climbing or trekking. Thanks to their stretch weave fabric they won't restrict your motion when you're going for that next move.

- Lightweight, waterproof, windproof shell take on storms with ease
- Stretch weave fabric provides added ventilation
- Seam sealed, 3-layer fabric keeps you dry
- Ankle zips allow easy on/off over boots

Fabric: 93% Nylon / 7% Spandex WR3 Layer Breathable

Thamel Packable 2.5 Layer Jacket

The Thamel district—home to inexpensive restaurants, Internet cafés and economical accommodations—is where most trekkers and climbers stay when they come through Kathmandu. This waterproof/breathable jacket is for any adventurer who needs a dependable technical shell, but is on a tight budget. Built to the same standards as all our shells, we've simply eliminated the bells and whistles to keep costs down.

- 2.5 layer waterproof/breathable fabric is seam-sealed for less-than-perfect days
- Elastic wrists and bungee waist keep out the elements
- Chest pocket with waterproof zipper for stashing essentials securely
- 2 interior stash pockets are sized to hold water bottles
- Fully adjustable hood moves with you

Fabric: 100% Nylon Ripstop

Thamel Packable 2.5 Layer Pant

These waterproof/breathable pants are so lightweight and economical, there's no reason not to stuff a pair in your pack in case of inclement weather. Combine them with the Thamel jacket for a complete set of dependable rain gear at a fraction of the cost of most jackets alone.

- Seam-sealed 2.5 layer mini-ripstop is fully waterproof and breathable
- Drawcord waist ensures a secure fit
- Elastic at ankles allows for on/of over boots
- Articulated knees let these pants move with you
- Single pocket with waterproof zipper keeps essentials dry

Fabric: 100% Nylon Ripstop

Halka Rain Jacket

Halka means light as air in Nepali... Making it the perfect name for this featherweight, streamlined shell made from durable, 30 denier waterproof/breathable ripstop nylon. Shove it into the included stuff sack and take it along just in case you get caught in surprise rain or snow storm.

- 2.5 layer, seam-sealed and waterproof/breathable for less-than-perfect days
- Adjustable wrist closures and bungee waist keep out the elements
- Under-arm zip vents keep you cool while climbing or skiing
- Fully adjustable hood is generously sized to fit over helmets
- Tibetan script screen printed on the inside tells the jacket's story

Fabric: 100% Nylon 30d Light Weight Ripstop

Halka Rain Pant

When the weather is iffy, or you're heading out on a multi-day and want to keep weight and bulk to a minimum, these are the pants you should throw in your pack. Made from the same featherweight fabric as our Halka jacket, they're the ultimate combination of ultra-lightweight packability and fully waterproof/breathable protection against the elements.

- Seam-sealed 2.5 layer mini-ripstop is fully waterproof and breathable
- Elastic waist with drawcord ensures a secure fit
- Ankle zips for easy on/of over boots
- Articulated knees let these pants move with you
- 2 pockets with waterproof zippers keep essentials dry
- Tibetan script screen printed on the inside tells the jacket's story

INSULATION - WOMEN'S

IF YOU'RE SPENDING TIME in the kind of temperatures Sherpas endure day after day, you need more than a just a few layers and a shell to keep you comfortable. So we asked the late, much-missed Pemba Doma Sherpa — one of two women ever to scale Everest from both faces — to help us design a line of insulated jackets that would keep anyone warm at high elevations. This is the result. (Read a tribute to Pemba Doma on p. 22)

Vajra Primaloft® Jacket 60 gsm

When you don't need a full-on parka—or even a down sweater—but you do need a bit of insulation for those chilly mountain mornings, this jacket is ideal. Warm even when wet, you'll take this cozy jacket everywhere thanks to its small packed size.

- 60 gsm Primaloft® — just the right amount for chilly summer nights
- Compresses down to next-to-nothing to fit neatly in your pack
- 2 hand warmer pockets and one zip chest pocket hold necessities
- Lycra® binding at collar and cuffs creates a snug seal
- A DWR coating makes the ultra-light, ripstop nylon water resistant

Fabric: 100% Nylon Ultra-light Ripstop DWR w/ Ultra-light Primaloft® One Fill

Vajra Primaloft® Vest 60 gsm

Sometimes, just a little extra insulation around your core is all you need to stay nice and toasty. For those times, we've created this vest. It packs down so small you won't even know you're carrying it.

- 60 gsm Primaloft® — just the right amount for chilly summer nights
- So light and small, it practically disappears inside your pack
- 2 hand warmer pockets and one zip chest pocket hold necessities
- Lycra® binding at collar and cuffs creates a snug seal
- A DWR coating makes the ultra-light, ripstop nylon water resistant

Fabric: 100% Nylon Ultra-light Ripstop DWR w/ Ultra-light Primaloft® One Fill

Meera Primaloft® Pant 100 gsm

Most people pack an insulated jacket when they're headed to glacially cold climates, but the Sherpa secret to staying warm is insulated pants. With the most Primaloft® of any of our summer insulation pieces, these low-profile pants are designed to keep you cozy in wet and blustery weather. If you're spending day after day outside in frigid temps they are worth their weight in gold.

- 100 gsm Primaloft® insulation for extra warmth in cold temperatures
- Lightweight compressibility for easy packing and carrying
- Full side zips let you take these pants on and off in a flash
- A DWR coating makes the ultra-light, rip stop nylon water resistant
- Articulated knees provide freedom of movement without binding

Fabric: 100% Nylon Ultra-light Ripstop DWR w/ Ultra-light Primaloft® One Fill

Ujyalo Ultra-light Packable Jacket

When you visit Nepal, even in the summer season you might encounter sun, rain showers, wind or snow squalls. But that's not a problem if you carry along this windproof, water-resistant shell. It stuffs easily into a hidden chest pocket, and is so light you won't even remember it's in your pack—until you need it.

- Windproof, water-resistant, ultra-light and highly packable
- Tricot neck lining for added comfort
- Inside pocket is perfect for your MP3 player

Fabric: 100% Nylon

SWN7161 | S-XL | 150 g. (5.3 oz.)

- Tomato Puree
- Jyango Green
- Sebu Yellow

Lekh Packable 3-Layer Jacket

Lekh means mountain range in Nepalese. And this, our lightest weight, most waterproof/breathable 3-layer hard shell, can take anything the mountains dish out. Made from super-soft, highly packable 15 denier ripstop, it's got all the features you really need and none of the extra bells & whistles. This is the jacket for any woman who believes less is more.

- Fully waterproof/breathable, seam sealed shell protects you from the elements
- Seam sealed, 3-layer fabric and waterproof zippers keep you dry
- Elastic cuffs and single-handed hem drawcord for added protection
- Extra-wide front pockets
- Adjustable hood fits over helmets

Fabric: 100% Nylon 15d Light Weight Ripstop

SLEEPING BAGS

THE FIRST SLEEPING BAGS CREATED AROUND THE USER, our revolutionary, articulated ergonomic design conforms to your body to eliminate dead spots, maximize warmth, and let you move comfortably. And the innovative center-front zipper lets you cook, eat, drink or play cards without getting out or losing critical warmth from inside the bag. Every one of our bags is designed with the same construction and details as our Tenzing 1 Expedition bag—the only difference is the temperature rating.

Pertemba Down Bag

Built using the same innovative design and premium fill and fabrics as our Tenzing 1, this sleeping bag—named after Pertemba Sherpa, one of the living legends of mountaineering—is ideal for most winter camping and high altitude activities.

Fabric: Shell: 100% Fine Nylon
Fill: 750 Power Fill European Goose Down (1050g/37oz Down Weight)

86" x 33" x 24" | 1700 g. (60.0 oz.)

Sherpa Adventure Gear - The Journey So Far

SHERPA ADVENTURE GEAR WAS INSPIRED by sheer chance in 2003. Back then, my family and I owned an import clothing business. In May of that year, while walking down the streets of Manhattan, a magazine issue commemorating the 50th anniversary of the first ascent of Everest caught my eye. The craggy lines of the familiar face staring at me from the cover belonged to none other than my Uncle, Ang Gyalzen Sherpa. I was amazed to discover that he was one of the original Sherpa on Sir Edmund Hillary's celebrated expedition in 1953.

Today, every climber in his heart is grateful for having a Sherpa companion on the treacherous slopes of the Himalayas. For it is the Sherpa who makes the route, carries the load and lays the rope all the way to top and back. They risk their lives for a pittance and smile through the life threatening ordeals on the South Col as they travel up and down the mountain slopes. But rarely do they receive any of the fame or recognition that follows a successful summit.

As I read the sad story of the many unsung Sherpa heroes like my uncle who live in total anonymity—and often abject poverty—in the shadow of Everest, I felt a powerful urge to share the Sherpa story with a wider audience. So I created Sherpa Adventure Gear and began making outdoor clothing and gear. Then I started sponsoring the best high altitude climbers in the world to test our products --the Sherpas themselves.

Giving Back—The Sherpa Heart in Action

One of my main goals in creating this company was to support and honor these people who do so much for so little. So each Sherpa Brand ambassador is paid a royalty based on sales. And up to $.50 from every product sold goes to a special fund for the underprivileged Sherpa children of Nepal.

Today our Sherpa heroes have become well known, and there are Sherpa children in Nepal that will smile every year thanks to our support. As time goes on, more Sherpa athletes are being invited into the fold to test and endorse our growing line of products.

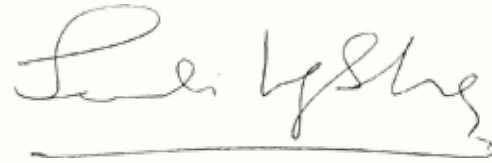

The Sherpa Adventure Gear Team in Kathmandu, Nepal

Thoji Che (thank you)

As we at Sherpa Adventure Gear look back on our short history, we are eternally grateful for all the help and guidance we have received. And for every customer who has put their faith in our products.

Every season we grow. But at the core we will always be a small company with a simple vision of doing business in the inimitable way of the Sherpas...One step at a time, helping each other on the climb up, and never losing sight of the destination.
